[illegible] Gracely told the stockholders that sales of the company [illegible] the first three months of 1948 [illegible] $6 856,000 compared with $[illegible],000 in the first quarter of 1947.

Approval of the recapitalization proposal amends the company's certificate of incorporation by providing for the issuance of 52,800 shares of 5 per cent cumulative preferred stock. Basis of Exchange

An offer will be made by the management of Marion Power Shovel Company to the 7 per cent preferred shareholders to exchange on a voluntary basis each share of 7 per cent preferred stock, including dividend arrearages, for four shares of 5 per cent ($25 par value) cumulative preferred and four shares of $1 25 cumulative convertible preferred and $8 in cash

It was announced at the meeting that the holder of each share of 7 per cent preferred stock exchanged will be afforded the possibilities for profit that accompany the ownership of common stock, as the four shares of $1.25 cumulative convertible preferred stock received in the exchange are convertible into eight shares of common stock. Furthermore it was asserted that the dividend accrual on the package of new preferred stocks offered in exchange is $10 per annum compared with the annual accrual of $7 per share on the present preferred Dividends on the new preferred stock will be cumulative from July 1, 1948.

CRACKDOWN ON LEWIS HINTED

UMW Chief Is Allowed More Time but Action Indicated Tomorrow.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, April 6—The government allowed John L Lewis more legal rope today before cracking down on him and the striking coal miners for defying a court back-to-work order

While government attorneys declined to reveal their time-table for proceeding against Lewis and the United Mine Workers Union, they hinted the deadline for compliance will fall tomorrow

If so, Lewis or his attorneys would have to do one of these things today to avert that crackdown

1. Send the nearly 400,000 soft coal miners back to work, ending the strike over pensions which started March 15

2 Fight the temporary restraining order itself by challenging its constitutionality or asking the court to dissolve it on other grounds

If Lewis elected to do nothing the next move appeared likely to be a contempt of court citation

Justice T Alan Goldsborough, who 18 months ago fined the union $3,500,000 and Lewis $10,000 for ignoring another back-to-work order, was due to receive any motions which Lewis or the government might offer The union's fine was cut to $700,000 when Lewis appealed to the supreme court.

The operators assembled today to discuss their position They had offered to negotiate 'contract grievances" two weeks ago if the miners would go back to the pits.

Violence Flares In Mine Strike

By The Associated Press

PITTSBURGH, April 6—After a brief flareup of violence, the idle soft coal fields settled into grim, silent waiting today

Quiet descended on the Harrison-Barbour county section of West Virginia where yesterday pickets clashed with strip-mine workers Five men were arrested and held for grand jury action on warrants sworn out by Grafton Coal Co officials Charges of conspiracy to inflict personal injury and to damage personal property were filed

Twelve persons were injured, nine seriously, in two outbreaks in West Virginia Pickets fought with strip-coal truckdrivers near Lost Creek About a dozen men suffered bruises Ten truckloads of coal were dumped

In Barbour county, pickets dumped 12 loads of coal and then marched into a mining property and closed a coal-loading tipple

Elsewhere West Virginia's 120,000 miners were quiet but showed no sign of obeying a federal court back-to-work order In other soft coal states there were no reports of miners going back to work.

Hard Coal Mines Out in Sympathy

By The Associated Press

POTTSVILLE, Pa. April 6 — The soft coal strike spread today to the eastern Pennsylvania anthracite field.

A check of the anthracite field, where total employment is near 80,000, showed approximately 7,000 men idle A dozen collieries, including operations of the big Philadelphia and Reading Coal & Iron Co., were not working here and at nearby Ashland.

And further north, at Wilkes-Barre, a total of 1,000 men remained away from two operations of Glen Alden Coal Co., world's largest producer of anthracite.

U.S. MOVES TO BUILD ARCTIC DEFENSE BELT

Aleutians Restricted to All but Military Use; Carrier Visiting Norway.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, April 6—The United States moved directly today to bolster this country's Arctic defenses—and indirectly to strengthen Norway's hold on strategic polar islands.

The direct action was signaled by joint Army, Navy and Air Force plans to restrict for all but military use a string of Aleutian islands. These stretch out in a fog-shrouded line toward Russian-held Kamchatka and the Kuriles They also cover the approaches to Dutch Harbor, which the Japanese attacked along with Pearl Harbor

Action on the other front came in the Navy's announcement that a U S carrier task force will visit the Norwegian port of Bergen, April 29 to May 2, on a "goodwill mission"

Both moves were described officially as "routine"

Behind the Routine

But behind the "routine" label was this background

1 Aleutians—Secretary of Defense Forrestal revealed two weeks ago that Alaskan defense forces consist of only 7,000 troops and less than 100 fighter planes At the same time, Navy officials reported that one of three mystery submarines said to have been sighted in the Pacific was spotted off the Aleutians

Present plans call for an increase to 15,000 in the number of troops manning the Alaskan outpost, but there has been no public statement on what additional air strength is scheduled for that area

2. Norway — the Navy's announcement yesterday of the "good will' cruise focused attention anew on Scandinavia—reportedly under Russian pressure Included in the task force are the 27,000 ton Essex class carrier, Valley Forge, the 6,000 ton anti-aircraft cruiser Fresno; and four destroyers These vessels are now on the last leg of a world cruise

"Good Will" Navy's Policy

In the same terms used to describe earlier "good will" missions to Greek and Turkish ports at times of strained relations with Russia, the Navy said the Norse visit will be "in continuation of the Navy's policy of making visits to friendly countries for the promotion of goodwill and furtherance of friendly relations"

Wilhelm M De Morgenstierne, Norway's ambassador to the United States, was due to leave today on a flying trip home His return also was listed as "routine."

Nevertheless, President Truman has openly expressed concern over developments in Scandinavia This was voiced in his St. Patrick's day address to congress asking for a strengthened military force to back up a "Stop Russia" program

Russians Delay British Effort To Recover Bodies in Crash

By LYNN HEINZERLING

Associated Press Writer

BERLIN, April 6—Even in the face of death and disaster, Berlin's east-west conflict does not abate

The bodies of 14 men and women of the west lay on a damp slope in the Russian zone of Berlin for hours after they died in a flaming plane yesterday Russian troops on guard said they had received no orders to release the bodies to waiting ambulances

A Russian plane crashed into the British plane shortly after the noon hour yesterday It took four hours to agree on how and when the body of the Russian pilot should be extracted from the ruins of his plane, which fell in the British sector of the city.

The Russians reached both planes first. They threw armed guards around them The first British troops to reach the scene could not approach

Maj Gen. E O Herbert, commander of British troops in Berlin, then arrived at the wreckage of the Soviet plane He ordered all Russian troops, except one guard, off the field Then he deployed British troops all around

Word of this action percolated back to the Russian command The Soviet forces then permitted one British soldier to stand guard over the wreckage of the British plane, in the Soviet zone

He was allowed to retrieve some of the bodies but not to remove them to the waiting ambulances

Photographers Barred

American photographers tried to get pictures Russian soldiers chased them away with tommy-guns

"The general said no pictures," one Russian officer said

They confiscated and destroyed some of the film exposed on the wreck of the Russian plane, photographers could get no further than the cordon of British troops The Russian guard there also was barring closeups

Use American Truck

Finally, nearly four hours after the crash, a Russian major drove up in a three-quarter-ton American lend-lease truck He wanted to take the Russian's pilots body away He had a German ambulance with him.

The major addressed himself to Lt. Col. John Corbett, deputy British provost marshal.

"Yes," said Corbett, "you may take the body. But I and this RAF officer are going with you to see that no parts of the plane are taken"

The Russian agreed Then he tried to beat the British party to the wreck A six-foot British military policeman stepped in front of the truck and stood with folded arms The British officers got to the wreckage first

The Russian offered cigaretes to the British as his men wrapped the body in a sheet

"What do those photographers back there want?" he asked the colonel "They're all mad"

Ambulance Breaks Down

The ambulance broke down and had to be towed off the field Then the Russian towing chains broke. British military police shoved the ambulance out into the road

Just then a Russian air force captain arrived

"We would like to take the plane with us," he said

"No" said Col Corbett

"We want to make in investigation," said the Russian

"I should think so," said the Britisher.

The Russians asked if they could put a guard at the wreckage. The British said that would be all right The air force officer then said one of the Russian sentries previously posted had disappeared Col. Corbett said the British hadn't taken him He said they would notify the Russians if the sentry is found.

Then the air force captain went away.

CRASH BRINGS SOVIET REGRET

Promise Allied Planes into Berlin Will Not Be Bothered in Future.

By The Associated Press

BERLIN, April 6—Russia publicly and officially expressed regret today about the "unfortunate" Soviet-British plane crash over Berlin yesterday which cost 15 lives

The Soviet commander promised the British that allied planes in the future would have unhindered access to Berlin

British officials said the Russian response was satisfactory and immediately cancelled plans to assign fighter plane escorts, beginning today, to all air transports coming into Berlin The United States followed the British lead U S and British planes flew in and out of the city today without escort.

The official Russian account of yesterday's crash incident said the Russian fighter plane hit the British ship as it was trying to land. The official British account quoted eyewitnesses as saying the fighter pilot was "frolicking" when he hit the British ship.

2 Americans Aboard

The British plane, carrying 14 persons, including two Americans, crashed in the Russian zone of the city All aboard were killed. The bodies lay in the wreckage nearly 12 hours before the Russian command finally gave its consent early today for their removal, The Russian fighter hit the ground in the British sector of the city The pilot's body was removed four hours after the crash

Russian-controlled papers mentioned the tragedy in items of one or two paragraphs They made no mention of the fact that the British commander in Germany, Gen Sir Brian Robertson, made a personal protest to the Russian commander-in-chief, Marshall Vassily D Sokolovsky, and the latter's pledge that allied aircraft henceforth would be assured unhindered access to Berlin.

Won't Interfere

Sokolovsky assured Robertson the Russians had no intention of interfering with British planes using the international air corridor into Berlin, a city ruled and occupied by four powers and isolated from the western occupation zones by 150 miles of Russian-occupied territory.

Marion County's Annual Drive For Cancer Funds Under Way

By SCOTT McMURRAY

The 1948 campaign of the Marion county chapter of the American Cancer Society got off to a flying start last night.

Some 115 Marionites who will aid in the $7,500 solicitation campaign attended the "kickoff dinner" at Hotel Harding to hear Dr. William G. Myers, cancer researcher from Ohio State university. report the latest from the laboratory battle line where the engagements are fought against the dread killer which claims one person every three minutes.

The program was introduced by Mrs. J. M. Strelitz, commander of Marion county chapter. She introduced Dr. H. K. Mouser, founder of Marion county chapter, who in turn introduced Dr. Myers.

Dr. Myers subject was "The Use of Radio-active Isotopes in the Fight Against Cancer."

"The fight against cancer is being carried on on three fronts," said Dr. Myers.

"Under the program of the American Cancer Society we wish to increase the awareness of the need of early diagnosis among the public, and the index of suspicion of cancer among physicians making diagnosis.

"Secondly, we want to get suspected cancer patients into the care of doctors early for with present methods of attacking this dread disease we can hope to cure only those in the early stages of the disease.

"Next, we are trying to supply patients and clinics with needed supplies for radium, X-ray and surgical procedure for the follow-up and treatment of those cases diagnosed as cancer by physicians.

"Our third front against cancer is in the laboratory in the field of research.

"The main bottleneck in cancer research at the present time," Dr. Myers said, "is the shortage of

Wisconsin Primary May Mean Finis for Some Candidates

By The Associated Press

MILWAUKEE, April 6—Wisconsin voters punch the ticket today on three Republican presidential aspirants

Some politicians think it may be a transfer to oblivion for one of three candidates—Gen Douglas MacArthur, Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York, and former Gov. Harold E. Stassen of Minnesota.

As a result of polls in Milwaukee, Dewey was given more chance than previously to pull up among the contenders, despite bear stories coming out of his headquarters here indicating that he might be the third man in the critical race.

Practically all of the politicians were agreed McArthur will go over big or won't be a factor at all A scattering of delegates, placing him in third position, almost certainly would put him out of the Republican presidential race

On the other hand, he could sweep the state's 27 GOP convention delegates and thus make himself the man to be reckoned with in the Nebraska popularity primary one week from today.

A new spokesman, Judge Shephen J McMahon, fresh out of MacArthur's civil administration setup in Japan, voiced that camp's last-minute prediction. It was

'Douglas MacArthur will win Wisconsin's primary by such an overwhelming majority that he will go into the Republican national convention as the people's choice for president."

That didn't jibe with what the Stassen people said.

Senator Joseph McCarthy, Stassen delegate, said a cross-section poll of Milwaukee's all-important voting districts indicated Stassen would win but that Dewey and MacArthur would have a knock-down and drag-out battle for second place.

Dewey Backers Silent

Dewey backers weren't claiming anything. It was almost like the night before Christmas with them, when anything would do for a present. Diligently, they had built up this psychology to the point where a Dewey delegate or two would be hailed modestly as a standoff, six or more would be looked upon as a moral victory and anything over that number would be considered an outright upset.

All these claims will be arranged in proper order in today's balloting. The final result seemed unlikely to be known until an hour or two after Milwaukee's milkmen complete their rounds and hit the sheets.

The polls opened at 6 a. m (CST) and will close at 8 p m (CST). Fair weather was in prospect throughout most of the state.

MacArthur's campaign has been by proxy, backed only by the general's statement from Tokyo that he is available for nomination

Stassen and Dewey campaigned here personally. Stassen has been to practically every cross-road. Dewey hit only the high spots.

"SITDOWN" TRUCKS IN WEIGHT CHECKING

(Photo on Page 9)

By The Associated Press

CARLISLE, Pa, April 6—State police today launched a drive to check the weight of hundreds of huge trucks parked along the Pennsylvania turnpike in a drivers' "sitdown" protest against weight limit laws

Within a short time eight drivers were arrested Justice of the Peace Marcus A McKnight said "two or three" were sent to jail when they were unable to pay the fines

Police making the truck-by-truck check with portable scales began taking drivers to McKnight's office as they found trucks exceeding the legal gross weight limit of 45 000 pounds Within a short time McKnight said his office at nearby Carlisle was full of drivers

"Weighing or no weighing we are going to stick to our guns until we get satisfaction," declared Mark Holliday of Somerset, a spokesman for the drivers

Their trucks have been strung out along the 160-mile toll road since Sunday night State police estimated the total of trucks pulled to the side of the four-lane concrete roadway at more than 1,000. The protest began, drivers said, when they received reports weights were being checked farther east.

The weighing started a short time after seven drivers were fined for throwing stones at trucks which did not stop near this eastern terminus of the $70,000,000 road. Other drivers took up a collection to pay their fines.

Cleveland Man Killed In Marysville Crash

Special to The Star

MARYSVILLE, April 6 — A man identified as Oscar L. West of Commodore Hotel, Cleveland, died in a William Faulkner ambulance enroute to White Cross hospital shortly after a car he was driving crashed headon into an abuttment one mile north of Marysville on route 4 at 3:30 p. m. yesterday.

The accident is thought to have occurred when Mr. West fell asleep, Homer Roosa, sheriff of Union county, said. Efforts are being made by the state highway patrol to contact relatives, the sheriff said. A fractured right leg and probable internal injuries caused his death.

He was employed by the Shell Oil Co. at Cleveland.

REGISTRATIONS HIT NEAR RECORD PEAK

900 Voters Beat Deadline To Swell Total to 15,519.

Registration for the May 4 primary topped the 15,000 mark by more than 500 as nearly 900 prospective voters beat the deadline yesterday in one of the largest last day registrations in recent years, election board officials reported today.

Unofficial tabulation made at the 9 o'clock closing time last night set the figure at 15,519.

Final recheck of the registration figure is being completed today with the official tabulation expected to vary only slightly over the figure recorded last night.

A total of 680 new registrations and 196 transfers was recorded yesterday.

Registration for the primary lacks but 360 of equaling the total registration for the last presidential election when registration in November 1944 was 15,879.

Board officials indicated an anticipated increase of about 2,000 in registration between the primary and the November election. Such an increase would hike the final registration figure for this presidential year to a total closely approaching the peak year of 1940.

UNITS TO MOVE THROUGH CITY AT 8 O'CLOCK

Army Dresses Up for Similar Celebrations Throughout World Today.

Marion joined the state and nation today in saluting the Army.

Marion's Army day observance will center on a parade scheduled for 8 p m The marchers will form at 7 30 o'clock sharp at designated points off West Center street and move through the business section of the city. A band concert is scheduled for 7 p m. at the courthouse. Should the weather be inclement at the parade hour it will be postponed until a later hour Captain John H. Mills, chairman of the Military Advisory committee announces Military units from other cities will participate.

Adding to the parade setting will be an arc of light over the city, emanating from searchlights placed near Edison Junior High school, Harding Stadium, Lincoln Park baseball stadium and Madison avenue. The parade will be reviewed from a stand at the southeast corner of Main and Center streets.

Exhibits in windows in the downtown windows and a display of shop equipment, half tracks, ambulance searchlights and other equipment at the courthouse attracted attention throughout the day and a tour of the Marion Engineer Depot this afternoon added to the day's observance.

Cities Stage Parade

Cleveland, Cincinnati, Akron, Columbus, Toledo and Akron staged the major Ohio celebrations of Army day, but some 27 other cities also had parades, speeches and planes flying overhead, an Associated Press dispatch reported today.

The high spot of Cleveland's program was a talk by Gen. George C. Kenney, commanding officer of the strategic air command. His topic was "National Defense Before It Is Too Late."

Also at Cleveland, the headquarters and base services squadron of the 30th Air Service group was to be officially activated, and Air Reserve planes were to fly over the city throughout the day.

Gen. Joseph T McNarney, commander of the air material command at Wright Field, headed Cincinnati's program He spoke at an Army day luncheon at Hotel Gibson.

Major General Robert S. Beightler, Army personnel board president and former commanding general of the Fifth Service Command at Columbus, was to be Akron's main speaker Major General Lewis B Hershey, wartime draft director, was scheduled for Columbus, and Brigadier General James R. Weaver, a tank commander when the Japs took Bataan, was at Toledo.

Athens, Chillicothe, Dayton, Findlay, Lima, Lorain, Mansfield, Portsmouth, Ravenna, Springfield, Steubenville, Youngstown and Zanesville were among other cities with Army day programs.

Bataan Survivors

Guests at Toledo will include Port Clinton, O, survivors of the Bataan Death March.

In powder kegs like Berlin and Trieste as well as cities here at home, American troops paraded their armed might. They put on their smartest uniforms to parade in Germany, Japan and Korea

President Truman, cabinet members and other officials were to review an elaborate Army day parade here this afternoon.

Congress was to receive the "flag of liberation" which flew over the capitol when World War II was declared, and which later was raised in victory over Rome, Berlin and Tokyo.

Military leaders from Gen. Omar N. Bradley, army chief of staff, on down prepared to tell the nation in frank speeches of the weakness of its armed forces. Their theme was that "a strong America is a peaceful America" —that while Russia has an army of between 3,000,000 and 4,000,000 men, the U. S. army has dwindled to 542,000.

Of the total, 258,000 or almost half are on duty outside the continental limits of the United States. The remaining 284,000 are on duty in this country.

But the rub there is the fact that only two and one-third divisions are organized into a combat striking force in the United States.

Air Secretary W Stuart Symington urged that the U. S. as a war preventative gather its military might and "place it in plain view" of Russia, the United Press reported.

"Our best defense against attack," he said in an Army day address, "is to be so well prepared as to convince a potential aggressor that he could not defeat us."

Love's Perilous Path

By ADELE GARRISON

DICKY had won his controversy with Georges But I guessed that he was not experiencing any satisfaction over his victory For myself, I quickly averted my eyes from the spectacle of the fugitive king, crouched against the back of his chair as if he had been beaten down there by actual blows

It was almost a second before he spoke, and then his words were almost inaudible

"You mean she would have shown those sacred letters of mine to that—that—"

I think Dicky would have spared him further humiliation if it had not been for that last flare of egotism

"What was sacred to a wife who truly loved her husband in the brayings of an ass who was disturbing her rest and recovery?" my husband asked "If you had waited Georges, until she was well to try to have her put a poultice on your festered egotism, neither she, nor her aunt, nor I, would have judged you so harshly But that was unforgivable"

I do not think Georges really heard this last castigation His brain was too busy with the crushing statement that Mary wished to show his letters to Noel It was the thing on which Dicky had counted for the final convincing of Georges, the truth that Mary loved her husband enough to show him the letters, and counted on his defending her against any further annoyance on the part of the royal playboy.

Georges was being convinced of the truth, I was sure, but I was not so sure of his being able to "sit up and take nourishment" after the ordeal should be over. Never had I seen any one so utterly beaten down I had to strain my ears to hear his next croaking question

"She has not shown them to him yet?"

"I told you before, no," Dicky said crisply

"Will she show them to him?"

"That depends entirely on you," Dicky said firmly "She has promised her aunt that she will wait for a while before showing them to Noel because of the news that you are going to marry Olina out here, and because, as her aunt and I pointed out to her, the sight of the letters might send Noel off into one of the rages which he has controlled so admirably since long before she went to the sanitarium

"One thing I must emphasize," Dicky interpolated "Emotional strain, except that incident to her role in the theater, had nothing to do with my niece's illness

"Her system was weakened by the fatigue of her work, and she had a bout of pneumonia which left her in such shape that a Western santarium was the only answer the physicians would give Noel had given no exhibition of tantrums since your departure, and, as he is most tender, devoted and charming when he restrains his temper, his wife's chief grievance while she was away was that she could not see him.

"Then she conceived the idea that her memory was failing her So she broke bounds, ran away from the sanitarium and came back to us We have had the devil's own time with her since she came back, although physically, she's in splendid condition But with my wife's aid, she is now convinced that her memory is just a bit lame, not gone forever, and she is herself again"

A groan broke from Georges' lips

"And I added to her troubles," he faltered

"You certainly did," Dicky agreed

"But, I did not know I thought it was because she was brooding about me, remorseful because of the ruin of our last farewell I wanted her to know how sorry I was, begged her to forgive me Then, when she did not answer, I thought she was unforgiving and I allowed myself to think of my dearest wish, marrying Olina But, even as the wedding plans materialized, my conscience began to trouble me I was sure that I was the cause of all her mental anguish, that and the thought that she was bound to someone she did not love

"I could not desert the woman I had loved so sincerely in my youth and long afterward, when I thought she was in such extremity So I issued my ultimatum to you, and to your wife And now, I do not know what to do"

The carrier and two escorting destroyers, the W C Lawe and the Lloyd Thomas, have already visited Australia, India and the Persian Gulf

Crusading Pastor Quits Post at Steubenville

Roving Reports

By Hal Boyle

NEW YORK

TODAY we sing a dithyramb in praise of that forlorn hero of the ages—the bald-headed man

Those who laugh at a bald-headed man only show their own ignorance.

For the bald-headed man is the man of the future He has been sent by heaven as a model of what all men will be like someday, when brainpower will be honored over brawn

Meanwhile the bald-headed man, like all pioneers and light bringers, is joked at and ridiculed

"Wanta know how to save your hair?" his friends ask And when he innocently and hopefully says "how?" they jeer.

"Get a cigar box"

There is no reason any longer for bald-headed men to submit to these jibes because they are coming into their hour of power The hairy man has had his day in history and is on the way out

Hal Boyle

Hair is unkept, uncouth unsanitary and unnecessary It is actually an expensive nuisance from our animal past, a relic as useless as an appendix There is really no place for it in the machine age

It may remain the glory of womanhood but it is already out of date on the brow of man, the thinker.

Science has confirmed this Any number of test tube savants have advanced the theory that bald-headed men are more virile than their fur-headed brothers The more hormones, the less hair

And baldness is also a sign of brains Dr. R E G Armattoe, a scientist from North Ireland, has just completed a study which showed that educated men get bald sooner than uneducated men

I DONT KNOW of a statement better calculated to empty our colleges But this is only because of the present flattering preference women show for men with hair.

Why do women foster the delusion that a man topped with cranial shrubbery is more attractive to them? Because bald-headed men give them a feeling of inferiority.

Women have dominated men since they led them as scrambling half-apes out of the forest But they are secretly afraid of a bald man They know that he is a symbol of the coming man—intelligent, authoritative, energetic, and aware of his own superiority to them They know a bald man is too smart for them.

SOCRATES, THE GREATEST philosopher of our race, was bald So was Julius Caesar, warrior and empire builder. In our own time Charles Boyer, screen epitome of the successful lover, and Bing Crosby, our finest living jukebox artist, have been crowned with more success than hair.

The basic advantage of the bald man over the hairy one is best illustrated by the relationship between Charlie McCarthy and Edgar Bergen Charlie has hair and a big mouth Bergen has the brain

Baldness is the insignia of civilization hair is a hangover from savagery

Year by year the bald-headed men are growing in power and numbers They still assault their scalps [illegible] massages and [illegible] them [illegible] lotions in a face-saving obeisance to the superstitious worship of hair.

BUT THE TIME IS coming when they'll drop this foolish pretense and boldly and openly take pride in their bare domes [illegible] that they are—badges of victory in man's climb from the tree-dwelling days

Yes, hairy-headed men are losing out When they kid a bald man now you can hear the [illegible] in their jeer. There is a day on the way when a man will have to shave from his eyebrows to the back of his neck to be socially presentable Then the bald man will have that last laugh he's been waiting to enjoy through history

I sure am glad my hair is falling out

Your Good Health

By DR. HERMAN N. BUNDESEN

Causes of Convulsive Seizures.

No symptom of disease in a child is so frightening to parents as convulsions. Here there is no need to warn them to call the doctor because their own anxiety spurs them to get him as soon as possible. And this is all to the good for, while a convulsion in an infant is not always a serious matter, it often indicates that something may be seriously amiss.

A baby's nervous system is delicate and easily upset. For this reason a digestive distubance or infection which would be weathered handily by an older person may cause a convulsion in the very young. Thus, irritation of the kidneys and bladder and some ear infections are frequently associated with convulsions in babies. A sudden rise in temperature at the beginning of an acute catching disease may be enough to set off a convulsion, particularly in an infant.

But even though convulsions are not infrequently due to such passing causes, the doctor must always assure himself, by careful study, that the real cause of the convulsion does not lie in some disease or defect of the nervous system. Actual damage to the nervous system is responsible for convulsions in some few children. For example, there may have been a hemorrhage or bleeding into the brain during or soon after birth. Then, too, convulsions may be one of the early symptoms of serious brain infections, such as meningitis or inflammation of the membrane covering the brain, and encephalitis or inflammation of the brain tissue. Tumors of the brain are another cause for convulsions.

A spasm of the larynx or voicebox and breath-holding attacks may end with a convulsive seizure in some babies.

Perhaps the most common cause of convulsive seizure is epilepsy. However, in this condition the convulsive seizures recur. What is known as an electrical tracing of the brain waves is helpful in making a diagnosis in this disorder.

Parents, of course, want to know what to do to control the convulsion itself. Putting a child into a warm bath with a cold cloth on the head may be of some value. The physician will prescribe such quieting or sedative drugs as may be needed.

Of course, in all instances, the cause of the convulsions must be searched for and treatment carried out accordingly.

Sometimes, what is known as a spinal puncture may have a beneficial effect when there is increased pressure of the fluid within the spine. A spinal puncture consists of passing a needle into the spinal canal and removing some of the fluid. This measure is often particularly useful in cases of brain hemorrhage.

Questions and Answers

V.: For the past ten months, I have had a gnawing pain in my stomach. It generally occurs three or four hours after I eat. My stomach burns very much after smoking and drinking alcoholic beverages. What condition causes this?

Answer: The symptoms you mention are much like those of an ulcer of the stomach or the first part of the intestine.

Immediate examination by a physician, including X-rays of the stomach and gallbladder, is advisable.

CONG. SMITH FIRM IN STAND AGAINST ERP

Says "Give-Away Scheme" Will Cost Too Much.

Congressman Frederick C. Smith of Marion stuck to his guns in bitter opposition to the Marshall Plan, continuing his fight against its passage into the closing hours of House debate on the bill last Wednesday.

In a speech from the floor he branded the Marshall Plan "just a starter for another foreign give-away scheme."

"I believe if every member of this House would inform the citizens of his district of the cost to them of this $17,000,000,000 Marshall Plan it would not pass. The scheme will cost the taxpayers of my district, the Eighth Ohio, $28,210,798," he declared.

The Congressman broke down further the cost for each of the six counties comprising the Eighth Ohio congressional district, as follows:

Marion county, $6,914,292; Hancock county, $6,282,122; Crawford county, $5,477,924; Hardin county, $4,167,394; Wyandot county, $2,959,572; Morrow county, $2,409,484.

Mr. Smith said his conscience would not possibly let him vote to fasten an additional 28 million dollars tax burden on the backs of the people that he represents—"especially," he said, "when you stop and think the Eighth Ohio congressional district's share of the $255,000,000,000 national debt amounts to $448,000,000, or $2,450 for every person in my district."

He concluded, "This scheme will not only fail to halt communism in Europe or anywhere else but will definitely have the effect of promoting it abroad and at home as well."

They Were Only Fooling

THE 12 directors of the Krupp works, released from charges of conspiracy to wage aggressive war and held only on charges of irregularity in the way they helped wage it, should have no trouble proving themselves innocent of wrong-doing. That will pretty well wind up the war crimes fiasco.

It has turned into a fiasco because the new principles of justice that were to be laid down at Nuernberg have been looking more and more like old rules of expediency. The crimes of the Germans have ceased to be absolute and become relative as apprehension about the Soviet Union increased. The sibilant whisper in the United States that maybe Hitler knew what he was doing after all has been heard at Nuernberg too, and if the judges are finding it easier now than they found it before to be "practical" about these things it's not surprising.

Perhaps the Krupp directors were only fooling. Maybe the judges who found the politicians and their military puppets guilty of crimes against humanity were hasty. Maybe Goering and his bully-boys were pure as the driven snow. Doubts are stirring again, as they stirred years ago after World War I—until finally a fellow named Hitler came along to preach that the Germans had been more sinned against than sinning. Perhaps the Krupp directors weren't conspirators; perhaps they were. It matters less and less as their judges relent from the original bold purpose of laying down new principles of international justice at Nuernberg.

More Sharing of Poverty

WITH the labor government taking over all privately-and municipally-owned electric plants, Britain passes another milepost on the road to socialization. Simultaneously, rate increases are announced. Contributing to the higher rates is the increased prices of coal from nationalized mines.

Sir William Darling, a member of parliament, observes that Britain's lot hasn't improved since socialization began. The more the people as a collective entity own, he observes, the less they have as individuals.

"There is a widespread belief among Socialists," he notes, "that somehow government can do things better than the people can do it for themselves.. Politicians do not seem to realize that when they deal in promises, if these promises are to be fulfilled, they must be fulfilled not by the politicians but by the citizens themselves. They speak of social security. Where does it come from? Not from the government. It comes from taxing the people. So does the public housing which politicians like to promise.

Federal Aid for Schools

THE federal school aid bill, which the senate has passed, would allocate $300,000,000 to the states, with no strings attached. It was the strings that killed off previous bills of this nature. The nearest approach to a string in this measure is the requirement that each state submit to the federal education commission a report on school progress in that state. From those reports the commissioner would make recommendations for possible changes in the law.

Experience with federal grants tends to prove that what the federal government subsidizes it soon regulates. Senator Taft, principal senate sponsor of the school aid bill, says the measure has been written "as strongly as possible" to prevent federal encroachment into state educational systems. If the bill becomes law, it will be the duty of congress to see that the federal government doesn't overstep the functions granted it in the bill as now constituted.

Federal aid for schools, like other federal grants, would give no one something for nothing, contrary to a commonly-held belief about handouts from Washington. But it would help the poorer states which are allocating a fair share of their income for schools, as such, the bill is in the national interest.

Shanghai Gesture

THE latest adventure of Milton Reynolds, the ball-point pen man, is so bizarre it might have been written under water.

An unauthorized flight, in which he may or may not have sought a mysterious peak higher than Everest, incurred the wrath of Shanghai authorities, so Reynolds decided to get out of there. When armed guards rushed to his plane to stop him, he thwarted them by flinging a handful of ball-point pens in their faces.

Thus a new purpose is discovered for the product Mr. Reynolds so assiduously exploits. It not only writes under water; it also can be tossed in the faces of those who would lay violent hands upon you. Can any other pen manufacturer make that statement?

Scanning the Record

By George E. Sokolsky

Exchange of Scientific Data Not One-Way Road.

I HAVE come across a small book entitled, "Science in Soviet Russia," consisting of papers presented at the Congress of American-Soviet Friendship, held in New York, on Nov. 7, 1943, under the auspices of the national council of American-Soviet friendship.

SOKOLSKY

The foreword was written by Professor L. C. Dunn who signed himself as chairman, Science Committee, National Council of American-Soviet Friendship. This is the same Professor Dunn about whom I have been writing during the past weeks.

In his foreword, Professor Dunn says:

"It is the objective of this committee to foster and promote closer relations, cooperation and exchange between American and Soviet scientists to facilitate translating and abstracting of scientific literature and to arrange exchange visits of scientific professors and students."

This is a noble thought, but in my articles I have asked Professor Dunn to list the American contributions to Soviet Russia against the Russian contributors to the United States so that we may see how they stack up. The book itself tells considerable that is interesting. For instance, Professor Walter B. Cannon of Harvard university, wrote:

". . . May we not hopefully look forward to more and more intimate cooperation and to interchange of ideas and friendly visits as year after year of peace comes to us and that thereby the bonds of fellowship and understanding between our two countries will become firmly strengthened and greatly multiplied."

More Convincing

Well, maybe Professor Cannon can give us the list of items that Soviet Russia contributed to the United States. That would be more convincing than all the round-term statements which these scientists who always criticize the theologians for inexactitudes, give us. Perhaps much of it is of the nature of the comment of Dr. Vladimir K. Zworykin, research director, R C A Laboratories. Dr. Zworykin tells how wonderful the Russians are in the field of electronics. Then he adds:

". . . This system utilized equipment and designs purchased from this country . . . We have often heard expression of the appreciation which is shown in the Soviet Union for the help received from the American electronic industry. This help is particularly important when every effort is being devoted to expelling the Fascist invaders. We know also how well the commanding staff and personnel of the Red army familiarize themselves with all electronic equipment for radio communication and other military purposes delivered from the United States and how well they use all our efforts to see that the common enemy."

In other words, we gave them our equipment, made in the United States by American engineers, working for American companies and they were grateful for our kindness—for a time. But what did they send us? Professor Dunn ends his article in this volume:

"For the sake of biological science itself, we biologists should use all our efforts to see that the barriers which separated Soviet biology and biologists from us should never again be allowed to prevent the free flow of persons and ideas, both scientific and social, on which the progress of science and of society depends."

In Agreement

I agree entirely. Will Professor Dunn provide a list of American biologists who have been permitted to study in Soviet Russia, to work in its laboratories and to bring out to the United States the results of his and their labors? Fair exchange is not a one-way road.

Professor Austin W. Curtis Jr., director of agriculture research station, Tuskegee Institute, says in this book:

"Russia, as any progressive people will do, copied from this nation those things which she felt were worthwhile and would contribute to the development of her nation . . . The Soviet Union with scientific exactness appropriated for her use those methods from our system that she considered adaptable and congruous in meeting the problems with which she was faced in creating her nation for the people."

That is a very correct statement of the case, but what did they give us? What opportunity have they given our people to study there? Let us say from 1917 to 1948, how many American scientists have been able to work in Russia, stay there for a prolonged period and bring out for the advancement of human knowledge what they found? And stack that up against what we have done for the Russians.

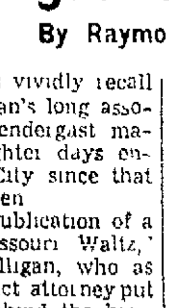
Pendergast and Truman

By Raymond Moley

TWO bits of news vividly recall Harry S Truman's long association with the Pendergast machine and the brighter days enjoyed by Kansas City since that machine was broken.

The first is the publication of a notable book, "Missouri Waltz," by Maurice M. Milligan, who as United States district attorney put Tom Pendergast behind the bars. The second is the result of the city election in Kansas City, in which the machine took another beating.



MOLEY

It is not often that a book makes national political news, but Milligan's deserves that distinction. Most of his facts were known before, but he has in this account of the long battle with the machine marshalled the facts with vivid detail and with inexorable logic.

The timeliness of the book is not difficult to see. The political antecedents of Presidents Harry S Truman were in the Pendergast machine. His stewardship as a public official is on trial this year. And in any consideration of his fitness to be honored with election to the Presidency, this past association is relevant. Milligan is a responsible, wholly informed witness, and his account is bound to have wide political significance.

Milligan lays it on the line by saying that, while in 1944 he issued a clean bill of health for Truman, the events since have caused him to feel that the public is entitled to all the facts. He says, "In a word, my observations of boss rule in Missouri renewing and flourishing during these years under countenance from a President of the United States and his executive assistants have dictated the writing of this book. Because of what has been permitted to happen in Missouri between 1944 and 1947, neither I nor any citizen has the right to extend the benefit of a doubt . . .

Big Help To Truman

"Pendergast might have made the pages of history without an assist from his most illustrious disciple but no serious student of our political scene can refute the assertion that Harry S. Truman's career without the help of Boss Pendergast, would have ended far short of the White House."

Before Milligan's appointment, he was called to Washington by Attorney General Cummings and was told that the administration regarded Kansas City as a "hot spot" and that a new district attorney would be expected to prosecute crime vigorously. Milligan's nomination was sent in by Roosevelt. He was confirmed and he went to work. All through his labors he had the cooperation of the department of justice and of the treasury. The FBI did remarkable and indispensable work on the cases involved.

When Milligan's term expired, Roosevelt reappointed him. Senator Truman was disposed to invoke senatorial courtesy to block the appointment, but the man then in the White House was ready to fight. Thereupon Truman contented himself with a speech charging persecution.

Time of Speech

This speech, it should be noted, was in the very midst of the vote-frauds prosecutions, which grew out of the 1936 election. Those prosecutions were successful and the sordid character of the machine was revealed. Later, Pendergast himself was caught and convicted as the aftermath of a piece of immense bribery.

After the death of Tom Pendergast, largely because of the vigilance of the Kansas City Star, more vote manipulation was discovered. When a year ago, the doors of the county court building were blown open and ballot boxes were stolen, there was "no comment" from the president.

Brighter days prevail in Kansas City now. In the city election on March 30 a non-partisan slate won for the fifth time. Jim Pendergast still heads the machine once ruled by his Uncle Tom. The President's picture, according to last reports, still hangs in the boss's sanctum. But the old power is not there, thanks to the Kansas City Star and Maurice Milligan.

The house has voted not to ship corn whisky to Europe as part of the Marshall plan.

Is that the way to win friends and intoxicate people?

Wouldn't it be better to have Europe under the influence of alcohol than communism?

Of course, corn whisky may not be indicated. ERP sounds like something more closely associated with beer.

In fact, come to think of it, maybe it wouldn't be wise to send intoxicants to a continent already in ferment.

After all you can't buy good-will with whisky . . . nor whisky with good-will.

Reds Need Army To Win

By Walter Lippmann

THE Italian elections are providing as conclusive a practical test as we are likely to get of a fundamental question, which is much in dispute among students of the Communist movement. The question is whether the Communists can rule any European nation without the support of the Red Army.

For 30 years, during the whole time in which the Communist movement has been in active force, no country has ever been subjugated by the Communists unless the Russian Army was able to intervene decisively.

LIPPMANN

After the first world war local Communists seized power in Hungary, in Germany, in northern Italy, and in various other scattered places. They were soon overthrown. The Soviet Union was unable to give them military support, and the native Communists plus the Russian agents were unable to hold power against the nationalist forces and the national armies.

In the interval between the two wars, western Europe remained democratic and capitalistic while central and eastern Europe with the exception of the Czechoslovak democracy, were authoritarian or Fascist. But no European country, however dislocated and impoverished, went Communist.

After the second world war the Red army advanced to the center of Europe. All the countries behind it, and enveloped by it, have been brought under Communist domination. But as yet no European country has gone Communist which was not occupied or surrounded by the Red Army.

If, then, the Italian nation and the Italian government surrender to Communist rule, Italy will be the first country where the Communist fifth column alone, separated from the four columns of the Red Army, has ever captured a modern state.

Demonstration of Power

The outcome in Italy will, therefore, demonstrate whether or not the Kremlin can win the mastery of Europe by waging a cold war. I am one of those who have thought they could not, that in any European country not within the orbit of the Red Army and not threatened by invasion, the national forces would prove to be stronger than the Communist fifth column.

Replying on the protection of the non-Communist world, they would be able to mobilize their strength to resist, and then to subdue, the local Communist forces.

Italy is the proving ground as to whether this hypothesis drawn from the experience of 30 years, is true.

We shall see what we shall see. Though the indications from Italy are not unfavorable to the hypothesis, we must wait for the results. But this much may be said now. All the main contenders in the Italian election, inside the country and outside, have recognized that the crucial and determining factor in the voting is where the decisive military power actually is.

The Communists cannot hope to win by persuading the Italian nation that a Communist government in alliance with Russia and in opposition to the west can give them peace, security and plenty. Only a minority, a fairly considerable minority but still only a minority believe that.

Intimidation

This minority can hope to become a decisive majority only by intimating a very large part of the Italian people, by making them believe that Togliatti and his men may come into power, that Russia and its Yugoslav satellite may intervene to put them in power and keep them in power and that then the anti-Communists will be persecuted.

By the same token the prospects of the Gasperi coalition depend on proving to the wavering mass that it is safe for them to rally to the non-Communist side. That is the purpose of the show of military force in Rome, Florence and Milan. That is the purpose of our own show of force in the Mediterranean.

Jefferson Said It

The following statement from writings of Thomas Jefferson, is worth reading in these times:

"I place economy among the first and most important virtues, and public debt as the greatest of dangers to be feared. To preserve our independence, we must not let our rulers load us with perpetual debt. We must make our choice between economy and liberty or profusion and servitude. If we run into such debts, we must be taxed in our meat and drink, in our necessities and in our comforts, in our labors and in our amusements. If we can prevent the government from wasting the labors of the people under the pretense of caring for them, they will be happy. The same prudence which in private life would forbid our paying our money for unexplained projects, forbids it in the disposition of public money. We are endeavoring to reduce the government to the practice of rigid economy to avoid burdening the people and arming the magistrate with a patronage of money which might be used to corrupt the principles of our government."

Wealth of Lenses

One million dollars' worth of photographic lenses acquired from the Carl Zeiss factory in Germany have put the United States far ahead in the field of optics, reports the Infantry Journal.

The collection, maintained by the army signal corps at Fort Monmouth, N. J., includes samples of all lenses produced at the Zeiss plant and provides data for cameras, bombsights, range finders and signaling equipment. The collection includes a camera that will photograph a building 25 miles away and reproduce it as clearly as a snapshot. Another lens is for a camera with a range of 210 degrees.

THE horse racing season has opened up [illegible] again, the first photo finish and the [illegible] neck and neck. Once more the mood of recreation and fun that marks trot racing gives way to the atmosphere of the subway rush hour and a traffic tie-up.

PHILLIPS

A strictly business mood marks big city racing. The whisper becomes the top medium of communication, the aspect of lightheartedness so visible at Hialeah and Tropical is eclipsed by a deadpan tenseness and real color is sadly missing.

The form sheet and tipster card become our best sellers, proper ventilation of Railroad coaches becomes a major problem, the pink flamingoes give way to Donald Duck, and over the countryside rings the hoarse cry of "Whaddaya hear?"

Shudda Haddem, back from a winter in Florida, misses tropical foliage and the warm breezes from the Gulf Stream so much that he does not expect to get back into northern form for some weeks. "I miss them flamingoes," he sighed today. "Win or lose, I could always look at 'em and feel like I was in a exotical setting."

* * *

"Sometimes when I had a tough day I could cross the track, jump the fence and join the birds in just pacin' up and down the marsh looking for fresh shrimp. It ain't bad. I did better with shrimp than with horses.

* * *

"Them northern tracks don't go in for bird life like they should. What can a guy look at when he has just lost again and is feeling blue? Just other guys! Maybe pink flamingoes would not live in the northern climate, but there must be other birds around besides sparrows and stray seagulls. A smart race track operator up North would go Florida one better and put a regular zoo out there in the field with peacocks, birds of paradise, pheasants, guinea hens and wild turkeys. Also a few zebras and camels. I don't go for camels, but they don't smell no worse than some of the customers."

* * *

"How did you do down south on the season?" we asked.

"Wonderful," he replied, "all things considered. I had terrific information and won so much in four months that I almost broke even!"

"Broke even?"

"I mean what I had to borrow to get home was only a little less than I lost," he explained.

* * *

"What do you like on tomorrow's card?" we asked.

"Step over here where nobody can hear me."

* * *

Shudda Haddem was about to impart important information when he said suddenly "Wait. There's a guy over there who is a lip reader. Come over here behind the shed!"

"This what I'm giving you is so good he is a sure thing to come no worse than third if he runs to form and is right and the stable is shootin'," he began, "barring accidents."

Then he whispered the name.

We didn't quite get it.

It was just as well.

The Family Test

By TRUMAN TWILL

NEVER one to miss a chance to see what goes on backstage this correspondent joined thousands of visitors who recently were allowed to roam through the North Canton, O., plant of the world's largest producers of vacuum cleaners—the Hoover Co.

Everything was interesting and one thing especially—the department that tests the durability of the product. It was full of ingenious machines designed to ferret out concealed weaknesses, with a gang of smug gents waiting in the background, just in case.

With due respect to these fellows and their mechanical benders, twisters, rattlers, bouncers and assorted destroyers, they have scratched only the surface possibilities of testing the durability of vacuum cleaners. They're sissies.

The way to test the durability of a vacuum cleaner is to put it into the hands of the run-of-mine American family for a month. When the testers call around at the end of that time, if the thing's still in one piece and functioning they can certify it's good for a lifetime.

This correspondent saw no testing machine at the Hoover plant to simulate the wear and tear of a 30-pound kid riding astride the sweeper while his long-suffering mother, who would do anything to keep the little hellion happy, trundled it up and down the living room.

There was no machine to simulate the damage a lively pup can do while cutting his teeth on an electric cord or a sweeper bag.

There was nothing in sight to give the testers a rough idea of what happens if the cleaner is force-fed a handful of hair pins, a dozen tacks, a couple of darts and a toy automobile.

Nothing was being done to give the experts a general idea of the consequences of catching a careless toe in a loop of cord and pulling a vacuum cleaner down a flight of stairs, end over end.

Nor was anything being done to approximate what happens when one of the things is left out in the rain while the head of the house, who had been cleaning the inside of the family automobile, gets preoccupied with more important matters.

This will give the cruelty experts a general idea of what a vacuum cleaner goes up against in daily use. These things happen, gentlemen. After all, why do you think your customers have to buy new vacuum cleaners?

Global Scene

By DeWitt Mackenzie

AMERICA'S program to rehabilitate western Europe, and halt Bolshevist aggression, has begun to swing into action with encouraging speed.

President Truman's signing of the bill last Saturday set under way a chain of developments calculated not only to implement the Marshall plan but to complement it. As a matter of fact the wheels already were turning before the Chief Executive made the measure law.

The welcome surprise came with the disclosure that three food ships were sent racing across the Atlantic "about Friday," as one press officer in Washington put it. Two of these vessels were loaded with wheat for hard-hit Italy was particularly urgent, because the democratic elements there badly need a fillip to their morale as they cross political swords with the powerful Communist party in the national election April 18. The country's survival as a free nation is at stake. Furthermore, should Communism win control of this strategic peninsula, the Red threat to the rest of western Europe and to the Greek-Turkish zone would be greatly increased. More aid is expected to Italy.

MACKENZIE

So the economic aid already is moving—concrete evidence to Italy and the other menaced countries that the United States is backing them. And Foreign Ministers Bevin of Britain and Bidault of France sent Secretary of State Marshall a message, thanking America for this help and promising to press actively for European cooperation.

BUT DEVELOPMENTS haven't stopped with the economic side, for the question of military aid for western Europe against Red aggression is being considered. This isn't surprising, for experience in two world wars has taught us that America cannot isolate herself but is bound to be drawn into any major European conflict.

The Washington state department is concentrating on this problem, and the possibility of a mutual defense alliance with the recently created western European union is expected to come under survey. As a matter of fact it wouldn't be surprising if this is one of the subjects which Belgian Premier Spaak will discuss with the state department during the visit which he and Prince Charles the Belgian regent, are making in the capital.

MEANTIME ANOTHER "halt Communism" angle developed. The U. S. commerce department asked congress for more money to enforce control over shipments of potential war supplies to Russia. Secretary Harriman has stated that the department on March 1 stopped any exports to Russia and her satellites except materials approved by the Army and Navy.

Equally interesting is the unconfirmed report from Madrid that Myron C. Taylor, President Truman's personal envoy to the Vatican, has discussed with Generalissimo Franco the question of Spain's position in event of war between east and west. Taylor conferred with Franco last Thursday.

And then we get from Washington the announcement that a carrier task force will visit Norway this month "for the promotion of good will." The warships will go to Norway after paying a call on southern England. It may or may not be purely coincidental that both Norway and Sweden are gravely concerned over Russia's intentions towards them. The position of these Scandinavian countries is most uncomfortable, as Moscow reaches for full control of neighboring Finland.

BY WAY OF punctuation, the working committee of the United Nations atomic energy commission yesterday shelved Russia's atomic control plan as inadequate and unrealistic. Russia and the Soviet Ukraine voted against the majority, and Muscovite Gromyko charged that the United States has decided against trying to reach agreement on world atomic control.

Yes, the democracies are tightening their defenses. And the Russians are driving them to it with such brazen exhibitions as they are giving against the western allies in Germany.

Cow Mother Again Of Triplet Calves

Special to The Star

GREEN CAMP, April 6 — Norman K. Bates of the Marion-Green Camp road, son of Dow Bates of Rapls Corners, is the owner of a very unusual cow.

On Feb. 16, the cow, a Holstein, which answers to the name of Spot had triplet calves. This is unusual in the animal kingdom, but more so in Spot's case as this was the second set of triplets.

Spot is six years old, has calved five times, and given birth to 11 calves, all of which are living. She has given birth to one calf, two sets of twins and then two sets of triplets. She gives about 15 quarts of milk at each milking.

The last triplet calves of normal size weighed approximately 65-70 pounds each at birth, and have grown rapidly since.

Cletus C. Uhl Is Elected To Breeders Co-Op Board

At the annual reorganization meeting of the board of directors of the Northern Ohio Breeders Cooperative Association held recently at Tiffin, Cletus C. Uhl of the Big Island road was elected to the executive board for the coming year.

This is the beginning of the second year for Marion county to be associated with the Northern Ohio Breeders Co-op. Assn. There are 30 counties served by the organization which has a total membership of 11,165. During the past year, a total of 47,956 cows have been bred. Marion county has a membership of 247, and in the past year, 1,088 cows were bred through this service. Raymond Hinklin is the technician serving Marion county.

CLARIDON CLUB MEETS

When the Buckeye Lads 4-H club of Claridon met Friday at the home of Bernard Roush, plans were made for purchasing a large 4-H flag for the county. HI-Y CLUBS PLAN CARNIVAL APRIL 10

Money Raised Will Be Given to World Youth Fund.

Plans are under way by members of the Hi-Y clubs of Marion for a carnival to be staged again this year with all funds raised to be contributed to the World Youth Fund, a Hi-Y service project fund set up last year to be used in rebuilding war-torn Y.M.C.A. buildings and facilities in foreign countries.

The carnival, similar to the one held by the clubs last year, will be held Saturday night from 8 to 11 o'clock at the Y.M.C.A.

About half of the goal of $8,000,000 set last year was realized by Dec. 31, 1947, according to Y.M.C.A. figures. John Stuckey, who is serving as general chairman in charge of this year's Hi-Y carnival, has expressed the hope that the citizens of Marion will support the Marion clubs in this service project of completing a $400 pledge to the World Youth Fund.

Committee chairmen serving under Mr. Stuckey are Bill Virden, chairman and Keith Smith, co-chairman of ticket sales, and Jim Wanner, entertainment committee. Adult Hi-Y advisors assisting with the plans are Max Sechrist, James Mautz and Marion McDaniel Jr.

Prizes which have been donated by Marion merchants for distribution at the carnival are now on display in the Y.M.C.A. window.

USED CAR LARCENY TRIAL UNDER WAY

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, O., April 6 — Jack Singleton's unusual transactions in almost-new used cars came up for scrutiny today as he went on trial for larceny by trick.

Claims by clients who said they paid him down payments, but never received an automobile or their money back now total more than $750,000.

He is accused on 15 counts. Conviction would carry a maximum sentence of 105 years.

Singleton, who has been held in jail since last Thanksgiving, attracted many customers when he was able to provide virtually new automobiles quickly and at prices which police said were below those he paid.

Selection of a jury was expected to be completed today, possibly in time for presentation of opening arguments. The trial probably will take at least three weeks.

The used-car dealer pleaded innocent last Friday when brought before Common Pleas Judge Frank J. Merrick, who will hear the case.

Couple Sues U. S. For Texas City Injuries

CLEVELAND, April 6 — An Ohio couple is suing the federal government for injuries allegedly sustained by the wife in the Texas City disaster last April 16.

George H. Felkner and his wife, Elly, of Wellington, O., brought the action in federal court yesterday. They ask $50,000 damage, contending Mrs. Felkner was permanently blinded in the left eye and suffered shock, cuts and bruises in the explosion.

The suit alleged the government and its agents did not exercise sufficient care in handling of explosive material stored in the hold of the S.S. Grandcamp. The ship's explosion started the series of blasts which wrecked the city.

TO EXPLAIN ERC IN MEETING WEDNESDAY

Capt. J. B. Weaver To Present Reserve Program to Vets.

Detailed information regarding the Enlisted Reserve Corps will be relayed to interested ex-service men at a meeting to be held at the unit instructor's office at 133 South Main street, Wednesday night at 7:30 o'clock, it was announced today by Captain John B. Weaver, unit instructor.

Retention of rank at the time of separation from the Army, opportunity to attend service schools at full pay, enrollment in correspondence courses and advancement in rank are some of the advantages to be derived from enrollment in the Enlisted Reserve Corps, Captain Weaver said.

He emphasized that in order for Reserves to be called to active service, an emergency must be declared by congress. If this occurs, he added, all men are eligible to be called, whether civilian or former service man.

In explaining longevity pay, Capt. Weaver pointed out that every three years of service adds five per cent to a serviceman's base pay, and this continues as long as a man belongs to the Reserve Corps. The pay bill has been signed, he said, enabling men who belong to an organized unit to be paid for their meetings.

Captain Weaver will be on hand to swear in all veterans desiring to enroll in the Reserve Corps at Wednesday night's meeting. A photostatic copy or the original discharge is necessary for the completion of the enlistment, he said.

REGISTRATION GAINS SHOWN

Politicians Having Hard Time Predicting Future Results from Tabulations.

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., April 6—Ohio politicians were having little success today evaluating the May 4 primary registration lists. They can interpret the figures either way.

The primary registration deadline was last night. Cleveland, Toledo and Columbus, three of the biggest cities, reported record-breaking totals. Cincinnati and other cities found the voters apathetic.

This left contenders in statewide contests wondering whether their chances were better or worse.

The two principal primary battles this year will be between ex-Gov. Frank J. Lausche and Ray T. Miller for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination, and U. S. Sen. Robert A. Taft and Harold Stassen for Republican presidential delegates.

Miller and Taft generally are regarded as having the strongest "organization" backing. A general rule of politics says the organization wins when the registration is light since "independent voters" thus are expected to stay home from the polls.

Pleased Over Turnout

However, Lausche and Stassen supporters obviously are pleased over record-turnouts in the three big cities.

The 1948 registration total at Columbus was 129,287, compared to the previous record of 104,756 in 1944. Political leaders in Toledo couldn't recall the last time registrations there approached this year's 142,000.

More than 500,000 registered at Cleveland this time, the previous record of 467,000 was set in 1940.

Ohio law requires registrations in all cities over 16,000 population. New voters, those who changed their name by marriage, those who moved, or failed to vote in the last two general elections were required to qualify.

Middletown also reported a registration record—13,749 to 13,197 in 1944 and 12,896 in 1946. Registration was slightly higher in Ironton (6,350 this year to 8,240 in 1946).

At Cincinnati, the Hamilton county election board said last-day registrations were "very slow."

TRUCKERS STAGE PROTEST 'SIT-DOWN'. Hundreds of huge tractor-trailers lined bumper to bumper along Pennsylvania's turnpike near Carlisle, Pa., yesterday in a sudden protest against Pennsylvania truck weight laws. The trucks began piling up as one driver after another flagged down others. The truckers said they want a pay load up to 25,000 pounds. Associated Press Wirephoto.)

TRUMAN MAY NAME HOFFMAN ERP CHIEF

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, April 6—President Truman awaited today the formal acceptance of Paul G. Hoffman before naming the Studebaker Corp. head to direct the European recovery program.

Hoffman returned to Washington today from Japan, where he went with Undersecretary William H. Draper Jr., to make a survey for the Army. He was expected to contact Mr. Truman during the day. Luncheon with Army Secretary Royall at the Pentagon was on Hoffman's program.

White House sources said privately Hoffman is Mr. Truman's choice to head the multi-billion dollar program to stop Communism in Europe.

Presidential Secretary Charles G. Ross would not confirm Hoffman will be appointed. He did tell a news conference Hoffman is returning to the city.

Bishop Tucker Preaches At St. Paul's Church

Rt. Rev. Beverly D. Tucker, D. D., bishop of the Episcopal diocese of Ohio, visited St. Paul's church here Sunday, preaching at the 10:45 a. m. service and confirming into full membership of the Episcopal church 11 persons. Following the service, a reception was held in the parish house for members of the congregation to greet the new members and the bishop. Dinner for the bishop and vestrymen and their wives was served at the Marion country club.

At the service, those who were present for confirmation were presented to the bishop by the rector, Rev. F. W. Leech. Bishop Tucker gave as a motto to the confirmation class the words of Jesus, when he appeared to his disciples in the upper room after his resurrection, "Peace be unto you: As my Father hath sent me, even so send I you." The bishop pointed out to this class which was being confirmed the week after Resurrection Sunday, their responsibility to serve as witnesses to their faith and to think of themselves as being "sent by their master for a purpose." In his sermon he used again the text, "Pease be unto you," and spoke of present day conditions and the "near crisis" facing our country and Russia.

She was in serious condition in a hospital after Perrault hurled the acid at her while she sat at a workbench yesterday in a factory, Kallasy reported.

The delegates are not pledged to a particular candidate by state law, but Dewey's forces are claiming all of New York's big bloc of votes. No other GOP hopeful has disputed this.

On the Democratic side, a few of the candidates for the 90 district delegate posts have announced opposition to President Truman, but the party's leadership has remained mum recently.

U.S. SUGGESTS ARMY PREP FOR PALESTINE

By The Associated Press

LAKE SUCCESS, April 6—An American suggestion that foreign troops be prepared for Palestine duty touched off speculation today whether the United States is willing to send soldiers.

U.S. Delegate Warren R. Austin made the troop proposal informally to United Nations security council delegates yesterday in outlining a 15-point explanation of the U.S. Holy Land trusteeship plan.

Austin did not commit his government to participate in the international force nor say which countries should dispatch soldiers. He said only that such states as would be specified in a special agreement should accept the burden of keeping the peace in embattled Palestine. They would send troops if necessary.

The military proposal was the key item in Austin's statement, which spokesmen described as a series of principles and suggestions.

The program was rejected immediately by the Jewish Agency and the Arab higher committee, respective spokesmen for Palestine Jews and Arabs.

DRAFT LAW WITHIN MONTH, SAYS TAFT

By The Associated Press

HASTINGS, Neb., April 6 — Senator Taft (R-Ohio) said today he believes a selective draft law may be passed within the next month.

The Ohioan, who heads the GOP senate policy committee, made the observation in a breakfast address here in connection with his campaign to win Nebraska's April 13 free-for-all primary.

"However it will take from 60 to 90 days to set up the machinery for such a draft," he said. "Perhaps by the end of that time there will be enough enlistments so it will not be necessary to activate the law."

At Grand Island last night, Taft plugged for bigger soil conservation payments, encouragement of farm cooperatives and extension of rural electrification.

Rubenstein was convicted of filing false statements with a New York draft board saying he was essential to the operation of two companies engaged in war work.

Rubenstein contended the statements were mere expressions of opinion and did not represent wilful misrepresentation of the facts.

A federal court jury in New York found him guilty and fined him $50,000 plus a prison sentence of two and one-half years. Later an appeals court reduced the fine to $40,000

The high court also refused to review the case of a co-defendant, Allen Gordon Foster, an official of one of the companies with which Rubenstein was convicted. Foster was convicted of joining Rubenstein in submitting the challenged statements to the draft board.

Among other actions Monday, the court:

Agreed to review the trial of Samuel Taylor, Alabama Negro sentenced to death for rape of a 14-year-old white girl.

ARREST OF 4 BOYS ENDS "CRIME WAVE"

Youths Admit Breaking and Entering 10 Groceries.

The arrest by police last night of four teen age boys brought to an end the month-long "crime wave" which has nettled grocers of the community since its start March 18.

The youths have admitted 10 separate breaking and entering offenses, and one attempted breaking and entering.

Places visited and loot taken by the youthful marauders include Buckingham's grocery at 706 Congress street on March 18 and 23 with money, cigarets and candy taken; Stoplight Market, 847 North Main street on March 23 with money, soft drinks, and cigarets taken.

On March 19 they entered Reiser's grocery, 265 Uncapher avenue taking money and cigarets

The attempted entry was made at the Smith Beer Distributing Co on Davids street. A window of the place was broken but entry was not gained.

Three places were entered on March 25. They were Vine street grocery, 375 South Vine street, where money, cigarets, ice cream, playing cards, potato chips, a meat cleaver, and a gum machine were taken. The second entry was made at Springer's Market, 302 Silver street, where nothing was taken, but the culprits ate a midnight lunch in the store. The third attempt on the night of March 25 ended in an abortive attempt at safe cracking after entering the George Wilson Bottling Works, 191 Edwards street. The safe failed to yield to amateur attempts at opening and the culprits left empty handed.

McAndrew's Grocery of Klerx street was twice visited by the youthful burglars, on both March 23 and 29. Money only was taken the first time but money, cigarets and candy were removed the second visit.

The fledgling culprits made their final haul the night of March 31 when they entered the George Todaro grocery, 673 West Center street, and cleaned the cash register.

A police spokesman termed the "gang" of youths a "thorn in the side" of the police department and expressed satisfaction that the culprits had been apprehended and placed in the detention home pending a hearing of their case before Juvenile Judge Edward Ruzzo.

300 GREET DR. BEERS AT BAPTIST RALLY

Meeting Part of 10-Day Crusade of Evangelism.

An audience of more than 300 people greeted Dr. G. Pitt Beers of New York City, executive secretary of the American Baptist Home Mission society, when he spoke at an evangelistic rally at Trinity Baptist church last night. Representatives from churches in three counties attended the rally meeting which is a part of the ten-day Cooperative Crusade of Evangelism sponsored by the Marion Baptist association.

Rev. Clarence Albin, pastor of the Morral and Grand Prairie churches, gave the invocation and Rev. L. R. Chapman, pastor of the Ostrander Baptist church, led in responsive Scripture reading. Rev. Donald Hobbs, pastor of the Richwood church offered prayer and Rev. Robert Maugans, pastor of Fite Memorial church, led in congregational singing accompanied by Mrs. C. W. Davis at the organ and Mrs. George Barnhart at the piano.

Dr. Beers spoke on the significance of the evangelistic movement which he stated is gaining great momentum in many denominations throughout America and in some of the European countries he visited last summer as a member of an interdenominational commission sent by the government to study social conditions. A prayer of consecration was offered by Dr. Paul Judson Morris, executive secretary of the Ohio Baptist convention, from Granville, to close the rally program.

Teams of young people from over the state came into the area for a "Youth Weekend Evangelism" effort and shared with local youth groups in a program of "friendly visitation" as a part of the general program being initiated in the Marion association.

The "crusaders" assigned to the churches in this area are Rev. Clayton Pepper, director of Ohio Baptist rural work, Granville, at Morral church; Rev. J. Gordan Hynes, director of Christian education of the Michigan Baptist convention, Lansing, Mich., at Grand Prairie church; Rev. Bruce Mills, regional director of the Baptist Home Mission society, New York City, at Fite Memorial church; Rev. George Riday, director of Christian education of the Baptist Mission society, Detroit, Mich., at Trinity church; Rev. Charles Pomeroy, pastor of Middleport Baptist church, at Prospect; Rev. Ward Hibbs, director of West Virginia Baptist rural work, Parkersburg, with the Radnor church; Rev. Ralph C. Zundel, pastor of the Troy, O., Baptist church, at Green Camp; Rev. Willis S. Webb, pastor of Trinity Baptist church, Toledo, at Richwood; Rev. William Caudill, pastor of the South Point, O., Baptist church, at West Mansfield; Rev. J. W. Poorman, director of evangelism of the Ohio Baptist convention, Granville, at Ostrander; Rev. George Reed at Springdale church; and Miss Miriam Peterson, director of Christian education in the Pittsburgh Baptist Mission society, with special assignments in several of the churches.

Mrs. Karl W. Schell, president of the association, presided for the meeting held at Hotel Marion where the group gathered for dinner and the business session. The campaign is in charge of Mrs. H. K. Mouser and Mrs. Fanny Benson, co-chairmen.

In keeping with the community concert plan former members were contacted in the pre-campaign for renewals, and reports showed more than 1,100 renewal memberships, assuring another concert series of outstanding artists. The local committee at that time decided to open the remaining memberships to persons desiring them. These will be available through members of the association or may be obtained at the membership headquarters set up again this year at the H. Schaffner Co. store. Headquarters will be open each day through Saturday and will be in charge of Mrs. A. G. Birch, secretary. Workers in the campaign are to make their reports at headquarters which may be reached by telephone by calling 8140.

One concert, the St. Louis Sinfonietta, a "little symphony" of 20 artist musicians directed by Paul Schreiber, remains on this year's course and will be presented on Tuesday, May 4 at the Palace theater.

Attending last night's meeting was Harold Welch, representing the Community Concert Service of New York City. Mr. Welch talked on the membership campaign and the work to be done locally.

For the dinner the flower appointments were jonquils and place cards were musical silhouettes.

FEDERAL AID UNLIKELY

GALION, April 6—Little hope of federal aid in building an addition to either Galion or Bucyrus hospital, it was indicated in a conference of city officials of Galion, Bucyrus, and Crestline, with Dale Sutton of Columbus, investigator for the state department of health. Crestline's case cannot even be considered, it was learned because the hospital in that town is not fireproof.

Sutton told the delegations from the three towns that a survey of hospitals needs had been made in the state, and that priorities had been set up in regard to federal aid. Due to the fact that Galion and Bucyrus alrady have city hospitals and some places do not have any, these towns are far down on the priority list.

Galion voters have approved the construction of a hospital addition by voting a $100,000 bond issued in Nov. 1944, and an additional $75,000 bond issued in May 1946.

Feller Takes Mound Against Giants As Tribe Heads Home

By The Associated Press

TUCSON, Ariz., April 6—Bob Feller returns to the mound today against the potent New York Giants as the Cleveland Indians break camp here for their barnstorming trip north.

Feller, who felt the sting of the Giants' homerun bats in a six-run blast the last time he faced them, said his $85,000 arm had lost most of its soreness in Tucson's recent heat wave. The strikeout king was expected to "turn on" his fast ball in today's exhibition.

Manager Lou Boudreau, suffering from a pulled leg muscle, assigned himself to bench duty for the third tilt in the 15-game for a holiday yesterday to enable series with the Giants. Lou called several Redskins on the injury list to recover from minor ailments.

Steve Gromek was slated to follow Feller to the mound in the final Tucson contest, with ex-Indian Ray Poat and Joe Beggs scheduled for New York mound duty.

Two members of the Tribe's "brain trust," Coach Tris Speaker and Vice President Harry Grabiner, added optimistic notes to the Indians' hopes for a pennant-contending position this year.

Speaker said a "hit to left" campaign by Eddie Robinson should enable the rangy first-sacker to clout the ball at a .300 clip this season. Eddie, who rapped 14 homers while batting .244 last season, has batted .352 in the past week since experimenting with the change in style.

Grabiner, who left for his Chicago home last night, admitted he was "always optimistic" in the spring, but declared:

"We've got a real good club and with Russ Christopher we're going to be a lot better. I don't want to make any predictions, but I think we'll finish higher than last year.

There are an estimated 1,000 ski tows now in use in the United States and the number is growing. There were none known in 1933.

AAU BOXERS PREPARE FOR TITLE DEFENSE

By The Associated Press

BOSTON, April 6 — After drawing byes in the opening action, lightweight Johnny Gonzalves of Oakland, Calif., and light heavyweight Grant Butcher of San Francisco, will start battling to retain their national AAU boxing championships during another crowded 10-hour program today at the Boston Garden.

As those 1947 titlists mingled with 4,847 first-day spectators, a total of 64 first and second round bouts were run off yesterday and last night. All but 14 went the three-rounds limit.

Among the winners were Charles Cotton, 147, Toledo, who stopped Carmen Basillio, Conastota, N. Y., 1:40 of second round; Joe Jarman, 160, Springfield, O., who decisioned Aaron Murkison, Birmingham, Ala., and Rufus Holliday, 112, Cincinnati, who decisioned Leon Perouty, Baltimore.

McNamara's Cleverness Wins 1st Race of Season

Dr. J. G. McNamara's five-year-old mare, Cleverness, won her first race of the season at Santa Anita Saturday. Driven by Foy Funderburk, Cleverness romped home the winner in a $1,000 stake race.

His top pacer, Buddy Patchen, finished just out of the money in Santa Anita's opening day Pasadena pace.

CUBS OPEN SPRING TRAINING SESSIONS

31 Youngsters Report for Uniforms, Light Workout.

Though the chipped and fading signs along the outfield fence and the rotting and warped planks of the grandstand seats at Lincoln Park bespoke the recent departure of winter, the field itself sparkled to life yesterday as some 31 baseball hopefuls limbered up in the first day of spring training for the Marion Cubs.

The green of the field, brought out by the sunshine of the last several days, was brightened by the white and red uniforms of the St. Louis Cardinals, reminding the handful of fans who wandered out to see what 1948 might have in store for the locals that the Marion baseball club was once affiliated with the Cards. Only a few of the youngsters engaging in pepper drills wore the grey of the Cubs. The untried rookies have yet to win their uniforms.

Not all of the squad was there for the light workout and uniform issue yesterday. About 37 boys in all indicated that they would report with the Cubs this year. Of the total, 28 have signed contracts, the other nine are trying out on their own.

Manager Lewis (Zeke) Bekeza, who has just spent some two months training in the Chicago Cubs' St. Augenstine, Fla., camp for outstanding prospects and farm managers, took a day of rest and didn't dress with the youngsters.

He has set up a tentative schedule of training from 11 a. m. to 3 or 4 p. m., depending, of course, on the weather, which last year thwarted much of the Cubs' spring training plans.

All of the squad is expected to be on hand for today's session. By tomorrow, training will begin in earnest so that the Cubs will be ready to go by April 27 when "Play Ball" will sound the opening of the 1948 season in Lincoln Park.

Diving Champion

The Dodgers added another run in the fifth and their final tally in the sixth, while slim Jack Banta held the Rebels to six scattered hits over the full nine innings.

ROCKY IS RUSTY IN BOUT WITH HORNE

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, April 6 — If there's anything that middleweight champion Rocky Graziano doesn't need, it's a rest cure.

He showed that last night as he defeated Sonny Horne of Valley Stream, L. I., in a non-title bout that went the full 10 rounds.

He also showed he will need plenty of work if he expects to defend his title successfully against Tony Zale on June 9, probably in Newark, N. J.

Graziano is famed for his knockout punch. It was completely unemployed last night. Repeatedly Graziano swung, and repeatedly he missed, sometimes by as much as six inches.

Yet so powerful is Graziano—a stocky little character with the muscles of a 250-pounder—that his glancing blows did more damage than the straight ones from the light-jabbing Horne.

At the end Horne had bad cuts over both eyes, and looked tuckered out.

Graziano didn't have a mark on him, and looked as if he was ready to fan Horne for another 10 rounds.

The judges all voted for Graziano, but many of the 5,181 customers booed when the decision was announced.

Graziano, who at 160 weighed a pound less than Horne, pretty well summed up the situation in the dressing room after the fight.

"I needed this one," he said. "If they don't ban me out of the ring, they'll rust me out."

He was referring, of course, to the fact that he hasn't fought since he won the title from Zale last summer.

New York has banned him because he failed to mention that some one tried to bribe him. Illinois and 13 other states have barred him because he once wandered off from the Army without bothering to ask the Army's consent.

Draft Act Doesn't Apply To Baseball

By The Associated Press

SAN FRANCISCO, April 6 — The draft act provision that returning veterans must be given their jobs back when they return from service does not apply to baseball players, a high court says.

That was the ruling yesterday of the ninth U. S. circuit court of appeals in upholding a federal district court decision. The case concerned the Hollywood club of the Pacific Coast league, which released four players shortly after their return from service.

Baseball is a temporary, seasonal employment, the court held, and does not come under the protective clauses of the selective service act which guarantee reemployment to men holding regular jobs.

The court also ruled that standards of play had improved in the Hollywood club and in the league while the players were in the service. The court therefore thought it unreasonable to expect the club to rehire players of pre-war standards, it found.

Neun Unsure of Line-up With Opener Only 2 Weeks Away

By The Associated Press

PLANT CITY, Fla., April 6—The National league opener is but two weeks away and manager Johnny Neun of the Cincinnati Reds is unsure of his complete opening line-up.

The Red boss, who brought the Redlegs here for an exhibition game against their Syracuse farm club, is optimistic, however.

Neun picked Ewell Blackwell, the National league's leading hurler of 1947, to do the mound chores for the first three frame's today. Eddie Erautt, who is fighting to stay with the Reds this season, and Kenny Holcombe were to take over from Blackie.

Blackwell also is viewed as certain to start against the Pittsburgh Pirates in the season's opener at Crosley Field, April 19.

Neun's opening line-up may look like this:

In the infield: Babe Young at first, Rookie Virgil (Red) Stallcup at shortstop and Grady Hatton at third. Bobby Adams and Benny Zientara still are staging a ding-dong battle for second base, but some observers feel Adams will draw the nod. In their careers with the Reds, Adams played 17 games at second for the Reds and Zientara has been there for 203.

Ray Lamanno and Ray Mueller will share the catching assignments.

In the outfield, Neun will name only one starter—Frankie Baumholtz for right field. He has Hank Sauer and Augie Galan for left field. Sauer, who hammers portsiders, is available against southpaw hurlers, and Galan, who led the club with a .314 mark, can take over the chores when the Reds face righthanders.

Neun feels his club is much stronger throughout this year, and has evidenced particular enthusiasm about his pitching staff as headed by Blackwell.

TWO DODGER ROOKIES SAVE LIFE OF GIRL

By The Associated Press

VERO BEACH, Fla., April 6—Two Brooklyn Dodger rookies in training here were heroes after saving the life of 19-year-old Juanita Bell, a visitor from Cincinnati.

George E. Bufflap, 20, York, Pa., and Robert Duchaney, 2?, Carmadeleine, Quebec, Canada, brought Miss Bell to safety after she had been carried 150 feet offshore by a strong undertow.

Duchaney went into the surf fully clothed and had to fight his way back to safety but Bufflap reached Miss Bell and towed her to a safety line, which they held until rescued.

All three were treated at the Indian River county hospital for shock and exposure.

The two young men are under contract to the Brooklyn Dodgers and have been in training at Dodgertown here for several weeks.

ORDERS GAMBLING PROBE

By The Associated Press

PAINESVILLE, O., April 6—Common Pleas Judge W. S. Slocum has instructed the grand jury to investigate reports of gambling, vice and racketeering in Lake county. Patrons last year were robbed of some $500,000 in a holdup at the swank Mounds club near here.

Cubs Have Nucleus—But That's All

By BOB MYERS
Associated Press Sports Writer

LOS ANGELES — The Chicago Cubs have the nucleus of a good ball club. The only trouble is that it seems destined to remain a nucleus, which is not enough to excite the Cub following, much less climb into the upper division this year.

Jolly Cholly Grimm has the makings of a good hitting outfield, and his catching is good enough, but his infield is beset with trouble, and his pitching is surrounded by a large question mark.

THUMBNAIL PREVIEW
CHICAGO CUBS
Pitching—Fair
Catching—Good
Infield—Spotty
Outfield—Fine
Hitting—So-So
Finish—Second Division

The 1947 Cubs finished sixth, 25 games behind Brooklyn, but all hope is not gone on the north side. Given a wee bit of luck, and a boost from some unsuspected source, the grim Grimms could finish fifth this season. Chicago's array of outfielders could be most effective. Phil Cavaretta, the perennial, hit .314 last year and seems as good as ever. And Pafko should improve on his .302, and there is still hope, as always, that Bill Nicholson will become the old time terror with a bat in his hands. Nick, a fine defensive man with a good arm, hit only .244 last year, but Cub hopes were high this spring off the fact that he got back in swatting trim late (too late) last year, and in the final month drove in around 40 runs, as compared to the 35 driven in previously during the more heated stages of the campaign.

Count on Lowrey

Peanuts Lowrey can be counted on for good stick work, too, but the Californian may have to shift over to third, where a problem, and much traffic exists, to plug up the gaping hole caused by the absence of Stanley Hack.

Two newcomers must be considered, and Grimm is considering both with some satisfaction. One is Clarence (Clarey) Maddern, whose .332 and long hitting virtually won the pennant for Los Angeles in the Coast League last year. The other is Hal Jeffcoat, who batted .346 with Nashville in the Southern Association. Jeffcoat, a well built young man from Gloucester, Mass., has impressed the club in spring training.

The catching: Clyde McCullough, Bob Scheffing and probably a good looking rookie. Al Walker, a .331 batter from Nashville.

The infield—well, that is still an old Cub $64 question. Eddie Waitkus at first, and veterans Don Johnson and Ray Mack at second, but short and third present grave situations. The club can get by with Lennie Merullo, or try with rookie Roy Smalley from Des Moines or maybe some one else. The third base job offers either Henry Schenz, Lowrey, Maddern or Ransome Jackson, the latter possibly a year off but not bad, despite no previous pro experience.

If Cliff Chambers, a 24-9 winner from Los Angeles, can make the grade after an uninmpressive tryout last year, he'll help the pitching considerably. Russ Meyer looks very good this spring, while the club may find good use for veterans Jess Dobernic as a relief hurler, a chore he executed with marked distinction with Los Angeles in 1947. From the way things went a year ago, with Hank Wyse, Paul Erickson and Hank Borowy in the Doldrums, and Johnny Schmitz, whose 13-18 record isn't as bad as it looks, just so-so, a good relief man may be invaluable.

Ezzard Charles' Achin' Back Is Official Now

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, April 6 — Ezzard Charles' achin' back had become official today and his bout with Elmer (Violent) Ray has been postponed until May 7.

Last week the Illinois Athletic commission requested the Cincinnati boxing commission to examine Charles' back. They okayed a postponement of five days from the originally scheduled April 7 bout in Chicago Stadium.

Yesterday the Illinois commission also put Charles under inspection and approved a second postponement to May 7.

Double Main Go On Armory Mat Card

Another double main go is scheduled for the Armory for Thursday night, Promoter Fishbaugh announced today. Risking his American junior heavyweight championship will be Steve Nenoff of Bulgaria in a title match with Gene Blakely of Texas, while Len Hughes and Jack (The Ripper) Kelley, who can't forget that he was once a boxer, will wrestle in a return match to settle a grudge. They were disqualified in a rough contest last week.

A 10-minute preliminary will open the three match program.

'48 Fishing Prospects Look Good in Ohio

By The United Press

COLUMBUS, April 6 — Ohio fishermen who plunk down $1.10 for their licenses this year will probably get more than their money's worth, the fish management section of the conservation department said today.

Lee Roach, assistant chief of the section, said fishing prospects for Ohio look good for the 1948 season.

"Of course," he said, "it's like forming a farm crop—a lot of things can happen yet—but we're looking forward to a better season because the fish crop is just about to hit the top of its cycle.

"For three years now the fishing in the state has been getting better and better. Last year's catch was 20 per cent better than the year before, and so far the signs point to an even better catch this year."

Receive Good Reports

He pointed out that the department had exceptionally good reports from two lakes—Guilford near Youngstown and St. Marys in the western part of the state.

Roach said he had not heard officially from other lakes but scattered reports from around the state were good. He said it was still too windy up at Lake Erie for many fishermen to be out so reports from there were skimpy.

Ohio's fishing season is open all year around except for black bass, on which there is closed season this year from May 1 to June 15 for spawning, and trout, which can't be taken during the winter months from September 16 to April 14.

Roach said the large mouthed black bass are taken in the lakes and the small-mouthed species are found in streams. A third species the spotted bass is not very plentiful and is found mostly in slow streams in southern Ohio.

Make Up Biggest Haul

He said that of the 175 species of fish in Ohio blue gills, crappies, large-mouthed black bass and catfish, make up by far the greatest haul by lake fishermen year in and year out.

Stream fishermen, Roach said, mostly take sunfish, catfish, and small-mouthed black bass.

He said that Ohio couldn't be rivalled for muskellunge in at least three spots in the state—the center Shade river near Pomeroy, the junction of the Tuscarawas and Walholding near Coshocton, and the Muskingum river section near Devol's Dam, where Ora Harris of Marietta caught a 24 and ¾ pounder March 23 in Dutch Run.

Roach said Harris' fish was as big as they come in Ohio although there may be a few caught this summer a little bigger. A 14-pound muskie reportedly was caught the day before Harris' catch several miles from the mouth of Dutch Run.

Roach said muskies have been caught well above 50 inches, when they usually weigh in at about 35 pounds. He said they increase terrifically after 30 inches and between 30 and 40 inches usually double their weight.

Bob Feller has a record of 10 one-hit major league games.

Two War Vets Grab Spotlight in ABC

By The Associated Press

DETROIT, April 5—Two war veterans occupied the spotlight in the American Bowling Congress tournament today after rolling totals that copped the singles and all-events leads.

Lincoln Protich, six-foot two-inch Akron, O., bowler who served two and a half years in the Pacific theater, cracked a 721 series yesterday on games of 256, 233 and 232 to take over the solo leadership.

Only a 5-7 split in the last frame prevented the Ohioan from at least matching a 740 winning total turned in last year by Junie McMahon of Chicago.

Before Protich scored his pace-setting series, 25-year-old George Wade of Steubenville, O., climbed into the all-events lead with a [illegible] total—an average of 216.1 for the nine games.

Wade, who served in the European theater during the war, fashioned his score with series of 604, 666 and 675.

OUSTED COACH BACK— WITH ADDITIONAL JOB

By The Associated Press

BELLAIRE, O., April 6—Cyrill Layne is back as Bellaire high school basketball coach today, a week after he was fired. The school board also made him head football coach.

Layne was ousted last week to make way for a new assistant to a Marietta coach slated for the football coaching job. The Marietta coach subsequently declined the job. Jim Dixon, last season's football coach here, resigned.

There is news that women will wear flowers and plants on their bustles . . . But we can nip this in the bud.

* * *

Any man whose wife shows a tendency to wear her orchids aft should shift immediately to cactus.

* * *

We men have stood for a lot in the way of a new look but when it comes to bustles bouquets it's time to put our hoe down at the root of the trouble.

* * *

We have enough confusion without that. Would the garden editor or the fashion editor get the letter which reads "recently I planted iris on my wife's back porch, what should I do?"

* * *

And it's things like this that are making it tougher for John Lewis to stay on page one. One more week like this and he'll have to use sailors to picket the coal bin in order to get a picture break.
